

Sell where demand arises.

A marketplace that understands the machine.

Here's how your sales still work today:

- Inquiries arrive by email or phone. No context. No connection to the machine.
- Open marketplaces charge high commissions for reach and bring no matching demand.
- Delivery reliability is based on historical data, not on actual wear.

The result: Express logistics eat into margins. Escalations cost trust. Commissions push your already thin margin even lower.

The Game Changer:

We bring the customer.

Not just the shelf space.

- Existing customers order with precision for every single machine — no callbacks, no wrong parts.
- New customers discover your products at the moment of real demand — across machine fleets you can't reach today.
- Your offering isn't one among many — it's the right fit for this specific machine.

More sales. More loyalty. Less effort.

From reactive supplier to seller on a machine-connected marketplace

Predictive Ordering

Machine data signals wear. Orders are triggered automatically, before the machine goes down.

Prioritized Deliveries

Critical orders are recognized and prioritized automatically. Your logistics can respond with precision.

Inventory Optimization

Demand patterns become clear. Your stock levels can be planned optimally.

Your material is strong, but access to demand decides whether you grow or remain interchangeable.

What you gain:

- Direct access to machine demand from OEM customers and their operators
- See demand before competitors do and act on it immediately
- Predictive selling instead of emergency response
- No cold calls. No tenders. No price spirals.
- Measurable delivery performance as your sales argument
- Scalable growth without added sales effort
